

THE SHOW WILL GO ON

By Nancy Roché and Tom Frazee

Written for the International Festivals and Events Association

All we need, is a single ray of hope
A spark of love to light the way.
What we have, is a will to carry on
Whose strength goes far beyond the darkest day
We won't crawl inside, refuse to shine
We won't deny who we are.

CHORUS:

There are dreams we've yet to dream
There are wild Imaginings
There are stars to wish upon
The show will go on.

And if love can grow somewhere
You will find us waiting there
It is where we belong
And the show will go on.

What to do, in an ever-changing world
How to heal, each broken heart
More than ever, I will stand by you
Compelled to play a bigger part
We'll let the show begin, spread the joy within
Stand in the spotlight with open arms

CHORUS

BRIDGE:

So join the parade, strike up the band, run in the race, fast as you can,
Fireworks burst, shows to rehearse,
Fly your balloons, Light up the fuse, stand up and cheer- we will be here!

CHORUS (repeat)
